Clamp on Moving Troops

Secretary of Defense Issues Security Order As to News

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson today ordered the Army, Navy and Air Force to clamp down on news about the movement of troops, ships and supplies to the Korean war front.

Johnson sent secretaries of the three services a "security guidance" memorandum laying down the rules to be followed in the release of information. He also included the restrictions imposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the Far East command.

These regulations apply only to the release of information by military sources. This is commonly referred to as censorship at the source. There is no legal restriction upon dissemination and publishing news obtained by direct news reporting from whatever source. There is no statutory authority for censorship in the United States, with the exception of certain provisions of the atomic energy law governing atomic matters.

Voluntary Compliance
During the last war, newspapers and radio stations adhered to voluntary codes governing domestic news reports, but this system ended upon Japan's surrender in 1945. Dispatches from correspondents assigned to war theaters were censored in the field by military censors.

The text of Johnson's memorandum follows:

1. Preparations for military operations or movements within the continental United States are subject to the following restrictions:

a. Ultimate destination of units alerted—Refer to theatre only, i.e., the Far East command.

b. Designation of unit: Release numerical designation only when unit is of division size or larger. Numerical designation of units below division level will not be released. Air Force group designations will not be released.

Non-divisional units will be referred to in general as a combat unit, a supporting unit, etc., of the continental army concerned, which have been alerted for movement.

c. Status of equipment: Not releasable.

d. Strength: Not releasable.

e. Date of movement from present location: Not releasable.

f. Sailing time of transports from port of embarkation: Not releasable.

2. Movements of naval vessel and transport or cargo ships from the west coast may be mentioned after departure but no mention

Speedup For Rushing Planes

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The Senate armed services committee unanimously agreed today that the armed services should seek faster delivery of several billion dollars worth of combat aircraft now on order.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) announced the group had taken that stand at a closed meeting. He said it adopted this resolution:

"In view of the present critical Korean situation and the threatening situation throughout the world, it is the opinion of the Senate committee on armed services that the military establishment should immediately give consideration to accelerating the delivery of planes on order to the maximum extent necessary."

Tydings said that "several billion dollars" worth of aircraft now are on order for the air force, the navy and the marines.

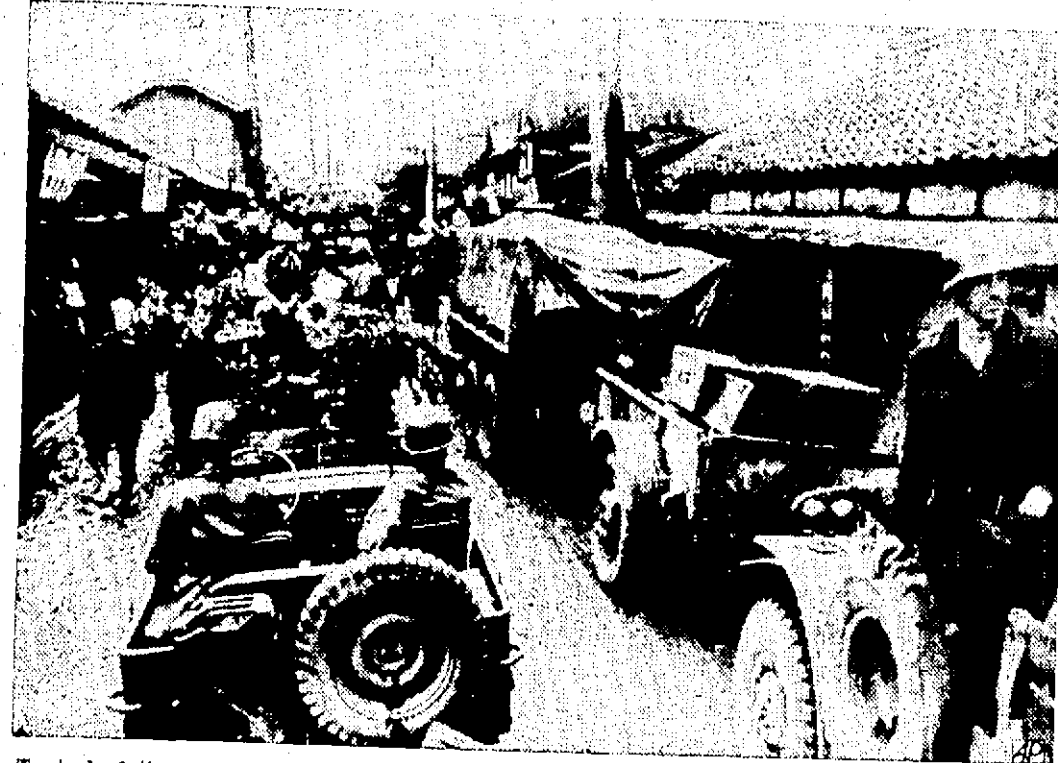

A speed-up in deliveries would mean an increase in the present rate of military spending since original plans were to spread the cost of the planes over a long period.

May Still Aid The Cancer Fund

Persons desiring to contribute to the cancer fund in the Pettis County Cancer Society's campaign to promote the fight on that dread affliction are asked to do so by Saturday, July 15.

Miss Rose Liebrand, chairman, makes this request and donations may be turned in to Mrs. John Welch, treasurer, at the office of Dr. J. E. Cannaday, or to Miss Phyllis Bush at Fred Werner's law office, or they may be mailed by check to those places, the rope, Stevie wakes up.

Traffic Jam in Korean Street

Typical of the narrow, dirt roads which have slowed down movement of U.S. motorized equipment to the Korean battlefield is this muddy street through a South Korean village. Vehicles are virtually at a standstill in this picture taken by Photographer Carl Mydans of Life Magazine. (AP Wirephoto)

Pressure For Some Limited Control Plan

Matter to be Before Cabinet Friday On Mobilization

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Well-placed officials today reported growing pressure on the administration to seek at least limited control powers over industry to help arm the country for the fighting in Korea.

They said no specific plan yet has reached President Truman to their knowledge, nor has there been any decision on the seeking of emergency powers from Congress.

They said they expected the whole question of home-front mobilization to be placed before tomorrow's cabinet meeting. One official said there would be a "top to bottom" survey.

Some administration officials were reported to favor an early White House request for powers comparable to those of World War II, under which automobile assembly lines could be converted to tanks and guns, and radio and television plants to radar equipment.

Others, it was said, advocate a "wait-and-see" policy, or one which would call controls into play only as needed.

General Position
Foremost responsibility for advising Mr. Truman rests on two men, Secretary of Defense Johnson and Chairman W. Stuart Symington of the National Security Resources Board (NSRB). The latter agency is responsible for industrial mobilization planning; its general position was reported to be as follows:

1. NSRB is rounding out a complete program of emergency powers but has not yet presented such a program of price, wage and manpower controls and materials allocation to Mr. Truman.

2. NSRB has received from the White House no request for a program of limited controls, such as a voluntary system of rationing steel or other currently tight materials.

3. The mobilization agency, as a general policy, opposes "limited" or piecemeal control measures on grounds that World War II experience showed them to be unworkable.

The major pressure so far, officials said, has come from industry and from Congress members. A good deal of it originated with smaller manufacturing companies which have sought government allocations on grounds that their suppliers are not delivering enough materials to keep their plants in full operation.

Need Be Considered
With the arrival of increasingly pessimistic reports from the Korean front, officials are beginning to consider the possibility that it will be necessary to call in the reserves.

Mrs. Leonard Williams, clerk of the local draft board, received a telegram from Jefferson City last night of the week, inquiring whether or not she would be available for full time work with the draft board.

At the present time, the draft board office at 500½ South Ohio avenue, is open on Monday only, between the hours of 8:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m.

All youths reaching their 18th birthday are required to register, and all days except Mondays may have been registering with the board.

The draft board met about three weeks ago and classified a certain number of men in 1-A. The draft board is composed of three men, who serve the board as long as they care to serve, and their responsibility is to see that men are given proper classification.

The three men serving the draft board are: William Bunch, Mayor; Herb Stader and Charles B. McDaniel.

Soviet Historian In Attack on Lie

MOSCOW, July 13.—(AP)—Eugene Tarle, noted Soviet historian, belabored U. N. Secretary Trygve Lie today for supporting American intervention in Korea.

Writing in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, Tarle declared Lie, after recently visiting Europe's capitals on his peace mission, "calls all the powers to help American annexationists in the Korean enterprise."

Tarle's attack followed a series of similar blasts against Lie in the Moscow press over the past week.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 13.—(AP)—Every county in the state will furnish at least one man under Missouri's draft quota of 482, Brig. Gen. John A. Harris has announced.

The Selective Service chief for Missouri said the older men in the 19-26 age group would be drafted first. In other words, 25-year-old, non-veteran, single men will be the first to be drafted from Missouri.

In Army Within A Month
General Harris said the entire quota of 482 would be in the Army within a month.

He explained that the induction policy settled upon today was to draft the initial quota only.

"If Washington asks for more men we may have to change our formula," he said.

Under the policy each county will supply men according to the present registration in proportion to total registration throughout the state, but each county will have to supply at least one man, the general said, so "the entire state will participate in this first draft call."

General Harris said tabulation of total draft registrations in each county may delay formulation of a county-by-county, state-wide quota for a day or so.

He said he had been in touch with Brig. Gen. Richard G. Tindall of St. Louis, chief of the Missouri military district for the fifth army, about where induction would take place.

He said Tindall told him that for the initial draft call physical examination and induction would take place only in St. Louis and Kansas City.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The army said today there "is no doubt" that the state as a whole was considerably below its quota. He said he would like to thank all those who helped put the drive over the top.

Every County To Furnish At Least One

Entire Quota For Missouri Is 482 Gen. Harris Said

The Majors Resume The Season Today

Williams May Be Out Remainder Of Year; DiMaggio. Few Days

By Ted Smith
NEW YORK, July 13—(AP)—All star game injuries to Ted Williams, first and foremost, and Joe DiMaggio, overshadow resumption of major league baseball play today.

Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, fractured his left elbow and may be lost for most of the remainder of the season. DiMaggio, New York Yankee centerfielder, aggravated a groin injury and will be out for two or three days.

Loss of Williams dealt the Red Sox a hard blow. It came at the halfway mark in the pennant race, a point at which in 1949 Boston then 8½ games behind, started a great drive that almost carried the Red Sox to victory.

Boston's Chances Slim
Boston in fourth place is now 8 games behind the Detroit Tigers, but without Williams Boston's chances to rally look mighty slim.

Philadelphia risks its hard won first place in the National league tonight against the Cardinals as the majors go back to family feuding. Howie Pollet (9-5), star lefthander of the second-place Cardinals, who was snubbed in the All-Star lineup, is ready to face Curt Simmons (10-5).

The American league has another shining night attraction: Second-place New York versus third-place Cleveland in Yankee stadium. Probable pitchers are Tommy Byrne (9-3) for the Yankees and Early Wynn (9-4) for the Indians.

Red Schendienst was the National league's big hero as the Cardinals assembled for the Phillies' onslaught. His 14th inning homer Tuesday off Ted Gray of the Detroit Tigers finally brought an All-Star victory to the National league, 4-3, after four straight losses.

Hit Outfield Wall
The beating the American league took at Chicago, however, was given a tragic twist by the injury to Williams. He banged his gloved, left hand into the outfield wall catching Ralph Kiner's drive in the first inning, but kept on playing.

The gravity of the accident did not become apparent until X-rays were taken. Those showed a fracture of the head of the left radius, a bone in the elbow. Williams will be operated on today at Santa Maria hospital in Boston for removal of a bone fragment.

By comparison, DiMaggio's hurt was trivial. He overstrained himself trying to reach first safely and avoid the double play that ended the game. The Yankee front office said he will play again in two or three days.

Tough Task For Dodgers
Ironically, two teams heavily represented in the All-Star game and favored by most experts to win the pennants, start the second half of the season each in fourth place. In the National league Brooklyn is 4½ games behind the Phillies, just about twice as good as Boston's position.

With Williams out, the Red Sox have even a tougher task than the Dodgers. Detroit, leading the Yankees by three games, is playing at a hot 653 clip, and Cleveland is now in contention in the American league.

Costner Decision Over Ike Williams
The first four National league teams—Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston, and Brooklyn—are tightly bunched and even the New York Giants, 10½ games behind in sixth place, are not so far off the pace as to be ignored, as the Red Sox proved last year.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13—(AP)—George (Sugar) Costner scored the fifth upset of the year last night, beating lightweight champ Ike Williams to gain an unanimous 10-round decision before an estimated 7,500 at Shibe park. Costner weighed 146 and Williams 143 for the non-title scrap.

The lanky Costner hit Williams with everything, but the ringposts, but was unable to floor the plucky 135-pound king. Williams, rated along with welterweight King Ray (Sugar) Robinson as the two best fighters—pound for pound—on the ring today, never had a chance after the hard punching Costner clipped him with a vicious left hook in the third round.

Judge Frank Knarsborough gave Costner all 10 rounds while Judge Lou Tress and referee Dave Beloff carded eight rounds for Costner and two for Williams. The Associated Press voted eight rounds to Costner, one to Williams and one even.

Top Golfers Tee Off in $15,000 Event

Hogan and Harper Are Only Notables Missing in Meet

TOLEDO, July 13—(AP)—A "sweet 18" of America's top-drawer golfers tee off today in one of the country's unique tournaments—the $15,000 Inverness Invitational Four-Ball matches.

This is the 13th of the odd best-ball classics—each a bizarre barrage of the highest type—but no one has become too familiar with the scoring system.

The 18 stars, all but one in the top 25 money winners—and all far up in the Ryder cup and Vardon trophy races—are split into eight teams. Each pair plays each other pair in 18-hole match play, the matches going the full route.

Finish Is Sunday
At the finish the winner gets a "plus" equal to the holes "up" on the foe, while the loser gets a corresponding minus. Thus a two-hole losing a four down decision actually winds up eight points back. Scores are carried over from match to match, and at the finish Sunday the lost goes to the team with the most points.

The leading twosome gets $4,000, and the prize dwindle until the last pair gets $1,000—a sure payoff of $125 a day for each of the two who finish in the cellar.

Defending Champ
Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Northville, Mich., and Bob Hamilton, the 1944 PGA champion from Landover, Md., are defending champions. They bump into Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., and Jack Burke, Jr., of White Plains, N.Y., in today's single round.

Demaret, paired with Ben Hogan, won the Inverness classic four times. Hogan, current National Open champion, and Chandler Harper, the PGA victor from Portsmouth, Va., are the only notables missing here.

Demaret and Burke sizzled around the front nine in 39 strokes yesterday, and Jimmy predicted the scoring might be better than last year when the field grabbed off 945 birdies and seven eagles in tearing the course apart.

Today's Slate
In addition to the Harbert Hamilton vs. Demaret-Burke match, today's slate calls for Dutch Harrison, Porky Oliver vs. Lloyd Mangrum-Cary Middlecoff; Freddie Hask-Fred Hawkins vs. Sam Sneed-Jim Ferrier; and Henry Ransom-Skip Alexander vs. Clayton Heafner-Johnny Palmer.

The Mangrum-Middlecoff and Sneed-Ferrier combinations have been installed as pre-tourney favorites.

13th straight victory.

The little New York shortstop's throw to Johnny Mize was on time, as usual. Pete Suder also being retired for another Yankee double play.

Cardinals And Phils Meet in Vital Series

Upon The Outcome Rests Temporary Leadership in Loop

By the Associated Press

The chips will be down tonight when Philadelphia risks its hard won first place in the National League against the second place Cardinals in the opening of a vital three-game series at St. Louis.

This is the big game of the day as the majors return to family feuding after the All-Star melo-drama, although an important series opens tonight also at Yankee stadium.

Cleveland's Indians, a game and one-half back of the second place New York Yankees in the American circuit, have a three-game job at the stadium. The injury-riddled Yankees are three games back of the league-leading Detroit Tigers, who meet the Senators at Washington in another night tussle.

Dominates the Scene
But the Phillies vs. Cardinals affair dominates the scene, and upon the outcome rests temporary leadership in the National loop.

The amazing Phillies, holding a one-game edge over St. Louis, are expected to shoot Curt Simmons (10-5) against Howie Pollet (9-5) in a battle of southpaws.

Both the Phils and Cards have to take into consideration the fast-stepping Ben Grimes, slugging stepping Ben Grimes, slugging

LaMotta Retains The Championship

NEW YORK, July 13—(AP)—Middleweight champ Jake La Motta laughed off the first defense hoodoo last night to conquer previously unbeaten Tiborito Miki of Italy in a fierce 15 round battle at Madison Square Garden, the Unanimous decision pleased the surprisingly large crowd of 16,369 who paid $99,641.

Squat Jake, a 5 to 8½ favorite, raked the dead game invader with a fierce body fire that left little doubt about the decision.

Referee Mary Conna found La Motta a lopsided 12-3 winner. Judge Joe Agnello saw it 9-6. Only Judge Ben Grant had it close 8-7. The AP scorecard gave the champ a 9-5 edge with one round even.

Burning with fierce pride in the title he won from the late Marcel Cerdan at Detroit in June 1949, La Motta saluted the "Tieste Tiger" for 15 long and weary rounds. Never was he able to floor his back-peddling foe.

Never was there the but in danger of hitting the deck, although he fired in the last three rounds while Miki, his right eye almost closed, closed strong.

Rain Halted Missouri Valley Tennis Tourney

IOWA CITY, Iowa, July 13—(AP)—Seeded players, inactive for a day because of rain, hoped to get back on the courts today in the Missouri Valley tennis tournament.

Dick Hamilton, Rock Island, Ill., seeded number one, was scheduled to play his postponed second round match today with Mike Weatherly of St. Louis, in the men's singles.

Lucien Barbour, Winfield, Kas., will meet Ellis Bryant, of Kansas City, and Dick Meacham, Topeka, Kas., seeded fourth, was to meet Ben Bishop, St. Louis, top-seeded juniors player.

Only 20 matches were run off yesterday as rain forced players along in third place only two games out of the lead.

Billy Southworth's boys are in Cincinnati for a night game with the Reds, and Johnny Sain with a 12-5 record is due to be on the mound for the Beantowners.

Ted Williams Undergoes An Operation

$125,000-a-year Outfielder May be Out All Season

By Dave O'Hara

BOSTON, July 13 — (AP) — Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox $125,000-a-year outfielder, undergoes an operation for a fracture of the left elbow today, but his teammates still have their sights set on the American League pennant.

"There is a possibility Williams will be out for the rest of the season," orthopedic surgeon Joseph Shortell said as he prepared to perform the operation at Santa Maria hospital in Cambridge. But the Red Sox took the news of their lanky slugger's injury in the All-Star game as "part of the game" and refused to admit they were out of the pennant race, although eight games behind the front-running Detroit Tigers.

Can't Fill His Shoes
"There's no filling Williams' shoes," said manager Steve O'Neill in announcing Clyde Volmer will take over left field and bat in Ted's No. 3 spot.

"It is pretty tough luck for him and the club, but there is nothing we can do about it," the Boston pilot added.

Johnny Pesky's comment was typical among the sockers: "Gee, that's tough for Williams and certainly for all of us, but these things happen and we simply will have to battle the harder."

Williams suffered his injury after hauling down Ralph Kiner's long smash in the first inning of the All-Star classic in Chicago's Comiskey park Tuesday.

Painful Elbow
"I hit the wall with the heel of my hand," Ted explained. "But it was in the elbow that I noticed the pain."

Williams said the pain didn't bother him too much until he left the game at the end of eight innings. But then, he said, it started to ache and by the time he boarded a plane for Boston he had to keep it perfectly still and even then it throbbed.

May Effect His Hitting

A right-handed thrower, Red Sox officials are worried most that the injury will affect Ted's terrific power in batting. As a lefty batter, Ted gets much of his drive from his left arm.

Although Williams' batting average is low for him at .321, he is up with the leaders in other departments. He is tied with Cleveland's Al Rosen in Homers with 25; tied with teammate Walt Dropo in RBIs with 83; and leader in runs scored with 75. He also has 22 doubles, one fewer than league leader George Kelly of Detroit.

In suffering the bone fracture, Williams became the second outstanding player to suffer a major injury in the All-Star games, which started in Chicago in 1933.

A Case In 1937
Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals suffered a broken toe when hit by a drive in the 1937 game. Later, to avoid placing too much pressure on his toe, he changed his pitching motion, suffered a sore arm and never reached his peak again.

Four of Five Crack Pitchers Rate Musial as No. 1 Hitter

By Frank Eck
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK — There is very little doubt about Stan Musial being the most feared hitter in the National League. But now we have it right from the horse's mouth.

Of seven top pitchers questioned on the subject of hitting, four of them say Musial is the toughest batter to get out in the league. Another recalls Musial getting seven straight hits against his pitching. The other two questioned couldn't possibly rate Stan on actual performances because they are Harry Brecheen and Howie Pollit, his St. Louis Cardinal southpaw teammates.

Musial's lifetime average for eight campaigns is .346.

Warren Spahn, Don Newcombe, Russ Meyer and Ken Raffensberger all say Musial is harder to retire than any other batter.

"Musial has no definite weakness," says Spahn, ace Braves left hander. "Stan is the kind of a guy who makes up his mind to swing and swings. He has hit bad pitches against me but sometimes he over hits the bad pitches for some runs, which is something few fellows in baseball do today."

Here's what Newcombe says: "You never get Stan set up against you. You can't pitch to a particular spot. Hold him to a single and you're doing good."

Meyer says the same thing in effect: "You can't fool Musial consistently. You can get Stan one but not a second time. He has good eyes and refuses to go for the bad pitch."

Raffensberger's feelings about Musial's hitting are similar. Here is what Cincinnati's southpaw has to say:

"Musial has no weakness, that's for sure. I used to have a set way to pitch against him but he's not going after my pitch any longer."

Roberts, leader of the Phillies staff of Whiz Kids, voted Hank Sauer of the Cubs as the toughest hitter against his pitching. "However, Stan hit me seven or seven during a spell last season. He hits me solid even when I put a lot of stuff on the ball."

Two Name Henrich
Of eight American league pitchers questioned, two thought Tommy Henrich, Old Reliable of the Yankees, was top man. The rest of the pitchers each had a different man — Ted Williams, Vern Stephens, Bobby Doerr, Geo. Kell, Dale Mitchell and Pete Sever.

However, five pitchers appropriately enough mentioned Williams as being among the toughest. Four others thought Joe DiMaggio and Doerr should be listed among the rough customers.

But Mel Parnell and Bob Lemon, the two best American league pitchers last season, both gave the nod to Henrich.

"Henrich is always tough," says Lefty Parnell. "He's more of a clutch hitter. He'll hurt you when it means something."

Lemon voices the same sentiments. Says the Indian ace: "Henrich is the type of hitter who acclimates himself to any situation."

Eight Home Runs Added To AA Records

Pinch-Hit-Homers Won Victories For Colonels, Indians

By The Associated Press

Two pinch-hit home runs won American Association baseball victories for Indianapolis and Louisville as AA slugers added eight more circuit blows to the record books.

Frank Kalin blasted a pinch-hit homer with one aboard in the 10th inning to give Indianapolis a 9-5 triumph over St. Paul. Monte Bassett smashed two homers for the Indians, one of them following Kalin's pinch-out. Earl Naylor and Fetter Anderson also got four-base blows for the Saints.

Colonels Beat Millers
At Minneapolis, Louisville's George Wilson poked a pinch-hit homer with the bases full in the eighth inning to break a two-all deadlock and gave the Colonels a 3-2 decision over the league-leading Millers. The defeat shaved Minneapolis' lead over Indianapolis one game.

Wilson's blow broke up a tight pitching duel between Louisville's Jim McDonald and Bill Ayres. Johnny Kropf put on a pre-man show for the losing Millers. He drove in all three of their runs with a home run and double. He made seven putouts in the cutoff.

Columbus Wins Two
In the only other league games played, Columbus ripped Milwaukee twice, 4-0, and 3-1. Otto Herbert light shiner. Ray Martin in the seventh inning opened when a walk, Vern Benson's single, passed ball and Mozzini's infield out scored the Red Birds' only run in the third inning.

Dave Cole, Milwaukee pitcher, matched Kurt Kriege's until the eighth inning of the nightcap when he walked over an unearned run with two out. A Lakeman, Milwaukee catcher, had tied the score at 1-1 with his 15th home run in the seventh.

A Toledo at Kansas City double-header was washed out by rain.

Marietta, Ohio to be Scene of '51 Regatta
ITHACA, N. Y., July 13 — (AP)—Marietta, Ohio, will be the scene of the "Poughkeepsie Regatta" on June 5, 1951 — for a second straight year.

This was decided yesterday by the board of stewards of the Inter-Collegiate Rowing Association after a two day meeting at Cornell University. The stewards considered invitations from six other cities — Poughkeepsie, Syracuse, Seattle, Tacoma, Chicago and Geneva, N. Y.

The stewards took no action regarding the site of the races after next year's renewal, which will be the 49th annual regatta known as the "world series" of American collegiate rowing.

Prior to this year, Poughkeepsie had the race all but two times. It was staged at Saratoga Lake, N. Y.

New 'Compound' Engine May Boost Plane Range

CIRCLED TURBINE—one of three on the "compound" engine—is run by exhaust gases from the conventional piston-type engine. Thus the same fuel produces more power. This "compound" engine is installed on a Lockheed P2V-4.

NO ESCAPE for the "energy slugs" always present in engine exhaust, in the "compound" engine. In ordinary piston engines, the "slugs" go right into the air. But the cartoon shows that in "compound" engine, they push a turbine wheel before escaping.

By NEA Service

WOOD-RIDGE, N. J.—(NEA)—Engineers at Wright Aeronautical Corp. have put one and one together and made one. They've made a new type aircraft engine that promises great things for aviation.

They took the best features of and combined them with the jet or turbine type. What came out is something they call a "compound" engine.

The new engine has been successfully tested on a Lockheed P2V-4 Neptune used by the Navy as a long-range anti-submarine patrol bomber. Already, it has demonstrated its ability. Using the same amount of fuel as a 2700-horsepower engine it developed 3250 horsepower.

And that increase in power was gained with an engine that is actually lighter in weight. The "compound" engine therefore gives promise of increasing the range of planes like the Neptune, which already holds the world's distance record of 11,236 miles.

Wright's engineers, who have been working on the project since 1945, knew that the jet-type engine produces great amounts of power from a relatively light machine. They also knew that the piston-type has certain advantages too.

So they built a piston engine. But, instead of letting the exhaust gas simply escape into the air, they piped it directly into turbines. Now, as the piston part of the "compound" engine operates, it produces fuel for the turbine part at the same time as it drives the plane forward itself. The "compound" engine is really two engines in one—with only one fuel supply.

Besides its economy of operation, in terms of fuel consumption for power produced, the "compound" engine has other advantages. In tests, it has shown that it can take off with a shorter run and also develop greater take-off power.

And it is a quieter engine too. Noise is an important factor in crew fatigue so the "compound" engine will be liked by the pilots as well as the aviator strategists.

The Neptune equipped with regular engines has a normal non-stop cruising range of more than 6000 miles. With the "compound" engine it can take a full military load from the United States to Europe and back again—non-stop without refueling.

That adds up to a big boost to aviation from the simple formula of one and one equalling one.

Scientists once believed molecules were particles ejected from the craters of the moon according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Unexplained Explosion At Fairview, Okla.

At Least 15 Hurt
Fire Burns In Seven Huge Tanks

FAIRVIEW, Okla., July 13—(AP)—An unexplained explosion Wednesday set fire to 7 huge gasoline and kerosene storage tanks in the center of this northwest Oklahoma town of 2,400.

At least 15 persons were injured.

Threatened The Town

For a time, the flames threatened the town, 40 miles west of Enid.

The fire was brought under control in two hours, then allowed to burn itself out.

A damage estimate was not immediately available.

Two of the tanks were perforated with 40-80 rifle bullets to allow gasoline to escape.

Gasoline ran down the Santa Fe Railroad right of way and ignited three freight cars.

Three warehouses, housing thousands of barrels of oil, were destroyed.

Grain Elevators Escape

Three towering grain elevators in this wheat and oil area were threatened for a time but were not damaged.

The tanks and warehouses were owned by three companies—Phillips Petroleum Co., Cities Service Oil Co., and Sinclair Oil Company.

Many of the injured were men in this group.

While the clouds of black smoke rolled into the air and flames shot up as high as 250 feet, citizens wet down roofs of houses and business buildings. They saved all of them.

Many of the injured were taken to Enid and Clinton.

Injured Fatally In A Collision With Transport

FAUCETT, Mo., July 13—(AP)—Alvis Ross Bishop Jr., 29, Kansas City, was injured fatally Wednesday in a traffic accident near here.

The highway patrol said that while attempting to pass a transport truck on U. S. highway 71, he collided with an empty gasoline truck. The truck driver, Robert Bonar, 30, Blockton, Ia., escaped injury.

Fewer Cases Of Polio This Year

NEW YORK, July 13—(AP)—

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis says there have been 218 fewer cases of polio in this "disease year" than in the same period of 1949.

The foundation said the number of cases since the first of this year is almost exactly the same as for the same period last year—3,187 up to 1 this year as compared with 3,186 up to July 2, 1949.

However, since the "disease year" begins on March 18, cases before that date are considered a part of the previous year's epidemic. March 18 is the average date when new cases are at the seasonal low point.

Cases since March 18 this year totaled 2,053. There were 2,271 cases in the same period last year.

The foundation reported that $39,125 was advanced to county chapters during the week ended July 8.

Texas again received the largest amount of emergency equipment from the foundation. Out of 11 respirators sent to five states during the week, Texas got six. Three nurses were sent to Oklahoma.

Ancient census takers often estimated population of a given area by the amount of salt consumed there in a specific period, says the Book of Knowledge.

Drop Strike Plans Against Braniff Lines

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 13—

(AP)—Plans for a strike against Braniff International Airways were dropped when word was received that an emergency fact-finding board would step into the dispute.

Earlier today contract talks between Braniff and representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks Union, AFL, airline division, had collapsed.

H. R. Lyons of St. Louis, international vice-grand president of the union, said that a system-wide strike would begin at 6 a. m. Friday.

Lyons said appointment of the board, which is a power given President Truman under the Railway Labor Act, will postpone strike action indefinitely.

Approximately 1,000 clerical office, stores and miscellaneous employees are involved. The dispute is not over salaries but over seniority rights, working rules, grievance procedures and posting and filling of vacancies.

Ration of Fashion Proves Their Passion is Cashin'

Spirit of Dad's Checkbook Hovers Over Display of Latest Styles

Go Ahead, Ladies, Feel — and guests at fashion shows usually take advantage of the invitation to touch the new fabrics.

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Talk about things being subversive, get this. There is a large, well-organized group of men and women at work in this city. Everything they are doing is hush-hush. And their aim in life is to change things in America.

They call themselves fashion designers. I went to one of their meetings, where they showed their secret plans for an invasion of the American home next fall. Nobody knows about it—yet. But come around August, and you'll all know about it. Women will be dying for one of those darling new coats or suits that these birds are even now stitching up. And men will be forced to support these revolutionaries by paying the bills.

Every season, it seems, this happens. The designers come out from a winter of high-class hibernation with new skirt lengths, new silhouettes, new materials, new shades. Well, maybe not exactly "new"—just different from the ones they had last year.

And they call in all the fashion editors to view their latest collection. The fashion editors begin teasing the poor paying public with hints of the things to come, next fall. And, come summer, the stores blossom out with these chic-est of chic costumes. By October, the women are wearing them, the men are bankrupt and the designers are back at their drawing boards, preparing for the next time around.

Showing a new fall collection, like the one I saw, is an event with the designers. We—17 ladies and me—sat in a semi-circle. Before us tripped the new styles, transported by models.

As each girl came out, she paused before a mirror, with a faint smile on her lips. Then she would tell the model number and the price of the creation she was wearing.

"Model 738," she would say, "$119.75. This is Model 738."

The commentator then launched into a complete description. "Here we have a perfectly lovely little cocktail suit. It has the new 'figure-eight' silhouette, you'll notice. The material of the jacket—go ahead, ladies, feel it—it is something entirely new, from France. The color is created exclusively for us. It's a new shade called 'burnt banana.'"

The model, while this herange was going on, would take a few mincing steps to the left, turn, smile, take a few mincing steps to the right turn, then proceed along the semi-circle, letting everyone feel the material, feeling daring. Few men have the opportunity to meet a girl for the first time and feel her material.

Everything that was shown was new. There was a coat—"we call it our shirt-tail coat"—which looked like a man's shirt-tails, strangely enough. The length next year for coats will be the "new" seven-eighths length, about halfway between the three-quarter length and the end. Next year, maybe, the fifteen-sixteenths.

Then there was the cape coat, which wraps all the way around and yet billows out both front and back. From the side, the model looked like an isosceles triangle with a head on it. Another coat that will be in style next season is the great coat. It's tremendous. If you get tired of wearing it, you can pitch it.

Another coat had huge cuffs that buttoned up the sleeves. The lady next to me, obviously an expert, was taking notes. She wrote down, "Cuff goes up one-third of sleeve." I was taking notes, too. I wrote down, "Fine place to carry lunch."

The "cut-away" coat will be in vogue next fall. It is shaped like a man's swallow-tail coat, shorter in the front than the back. Personally, I think they were just running short of material when they designed this job.

For more than an hour, the models paraded in and out, the commentator chattered amiably about the styles, the assembled ladies took notes. Over the whole meeting, however, hovered the somber vision of Father and his check book.

Tells of Mexican Tall Corn

DES MOINES, Iowa.—(AP)—Milton Chadima has been telling his farmer neighbors west of Swisher about some corn he saw six feet tall and with ears ready to pick. But it wasn't anywhere near Swisher.

Mr. and Mrs. Chadima went on a 5,362-mile automobile excursion into southern Mexico. Chadima said he found Mexican agriculture at least as primitive as that of the Swisher locality when pioneer settlers came there 100 years ago.

'Ninotschka' Wows Berlin

BERLIN — (AP) — "Ninotschka," Hollywood's 12-year-old satire on Moscow Communism, is still one of democracy's hottest weapons in its cold war with Russia here.

This film had west Berlin giggling in 1948 when giggles were hard to get—during the Russian blockade. It was reissued during the White-Sunday march of Communist-led east German youth on Berlin.

That turned out a happy choice because it gave the visiting east Germans a chance to laugh at their Soviet occupiers and their home-grown Communist rulers.

Elevators in the United States during 1949 carried 30 times as many passengers as were carried by railroads.

Florida Gambling Probed While
Gillette Committee Soft Pedals
Big Campaign Contributors

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—Two Democratic Senators in two widely separated areas appear to have widely divergent views on big campaign contributions:

No. 1 is serious-minded Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee who today opens up a big probe of Florida gambling, including the third of a million dollars pumped into the political kitty of Fuller Warren to elect him governor of Florida. Warren is a Democrat and so is Kefauver, but the Senator isn't letting that hamper the investigation.

No. 2 is likable, silver-crested Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa, chairman of a Senate committee supposed to investigate big campaign contributions. When the easy-going Mr. Gillette is asked too many questions about his probe, he puts on his hat and walks away.

So far this year more big money has been pumped into senatorial primaries than almost any other year in history, both by Democrats and Republicans. But Guy Gillette just doesn't seem anxious to embarrass either party.

Who Elects Governors

Down in Miami, Senator Kefauver's investigation, beginning today, goes to the root of how the gambling rackets have become political rackets. I haven't talked to Kefauver's investigators, but I have made a study of Florida gambling and here is the general picture he will find.

Gambling in the lush winter sportland around Florida has been divided among three gangs:

- A. The old Capone mob under William H. Johnston of Chicago and Jacksonville controls the dog races of the entire state.
- B. The S. and G. syndicate, a group of local businessmen, control the book-making in Miami and Miami Beach.
- C. The New York mob, under Meyer Lansky, an associate of Frankie Costello, operates in Broward county, north of Miami Beach.

In order to preserve the millions in profits raked in from these areas, the gangs subsidize the sheriffs of their local counties and even the governor of Florida himself. In fact, when the Chicago gang told the S. and G. syndicate to move over and let them in on part of the Miami bookmaking, the S. and G. syndicate immediately appealed to the man it had helped elect to office, Dade County Sheriff Jimmy Sullivan.

Dog-Racer Elected Governor

Whereupon, the Chicago gang also fell back on the man it had helped elect to office, Gov. Fuller Warren. Dog-racer William Johnston, it developed, had contributed the amazing amount of $154,000 to Warren's primary campaign, despite the fact that it was against the law at that time to contribute more than $5,000 per person. After Warren was elected to office, of course, he got the law changed.

Another $154,000 was given and loaned to Warren by Louis E. Wolfson of Jacksonville, also in violation of the $5,000 limit.

Governor Warren has now found himself betwixt and between in the war of gamblers, and the Kefauver crime committee wants to find out what the gamblers get in return for their stupendous campaign gifts.

Pennsylvania No Pickers

Meanwhile, in another part of the U.S., other sizable campaign gifts have been revealed in the good old Republican state of Pennsylvania. This time gamblers were not the contributors, but big manufacturers.

Joe Grundy, the famed GOP high-tariff advocate, contributed $94,000 to the Jay Cooke-John Kunkel campaign in Pennsylvania to defeat Governor Jim Duff, also Republican. Mason Owlett put up $52,000; loaned another $45,000, while his wife gave $3,000. W. T. Wright also loaned $156,135 to the Kunkel-Cooke committee.

But in Washington, Senator Gillette did not seem much interested in these big contributions. He sent Fielding Wright, Jr., son of the Mississippi Dixiecrat governor, to Pennsylvania to probe the big dough shelled out by the manufacturers, but it was learned that Wright chiefly paid a social call on the Pennsylvania secretary of state.

Gillette Prefers Scouts

Asked what young Wright had done in Pennsylvania, Gillette said he didn't know.

"Aren't you the chairman?" the Senator was asked.

"Of course, but I don't keep track of every detail," said Gillette, and reached for his hat.

"As a matter of fact," the Senator was reminded, "all Fielding Wright did in Pennsylvania was to pick up the information that was available in the secretary of state's office. You could have gotten just as much by writing a letter."

"No, he got more information than that," insisted Gillette.

"What is Wright's background as an investigator?" the Senator was asked.

"I don't know."

"Didn't you study his qualifications before hiring him?"

"Sure," shot back the Senator, again reaching for his hat.

"Then how much experience has he had?" "I'm just not going to give you that information."

"Isn't it true that Wright really spends most of his time in the office of Senator Stennis of Mississippi rather than being out in the field investigating campaign expenditures?"

This time the Senator not only got his hat, but ducked through the door and began walking rapidly down the corridor of the Senate office building.

"The Senator," explained his assistant, "has to meet some Boy Scouts."

That, perhaps, explains the type of hand-shaking likable Guy Gillette prefers at a time when as much as $1,500,000 has been spent in one primary to elect a man to a job paying only $12,500. Maybe Gillette thinks Boy Scouts are more important, but the voters, when they finally wake up to what's going on, probably won't.

U. S. Will Have to Carry Burden of Korean Conflict

By Bruce Blossat

Battlefront reports describing the first American fighting in Korea did not make cheerful news. The slogging retreat recalled the bitter days of Bataan in the Philippines at the start of World War II.

But General MacArthur has assured Washington that the situation is not critical. So our military leaders are not deeply troubled at the ground lost and the reverses suffered by U. S. forces. They are confident we can throw back the North Korean invaders beyond their boundary at the 38th parallel.

The rather unhappy beginning for the Americans emphasizes, however, that this task is not one to be accomplished off-handedly with a mild show of strength. The North Korean Reds are well trained and well equipped. Their 150 to 160 tanks were decisive in the early advances. Their field tactics reflect expert schooling from their masters in Moscow.

In any military action so fluid as the Korean war has been thus far, the first goal of the opposing force must be to establish a solid line, to check the headlong rush of the aggressors. That is not an easy thing under the circumstances which prevailed in South Korea.

The South Korean army was ill-equipped to combat the North Koreans' armor. Though U. S. military advisers rated the South Koreans' morale and fighting qualities high, they showed a marked tendency to fold up when confronted by tanks or the threat of tanks.

With the men and equipment America could put into the fight immediately, there could have been no great hope of halting the Reds from the moment contact was made. Our forces were small. Our jet fighters were too fast for tree-level attacks on enemy columns and installations. The B-29 is a big target bomber and consequently out of place as a tactical weapon against bridges and gun emplacements.

Time and the over-water movement of men and materials will change all this. As a defense line becomes stabilized across the Korean peninsula, we will begin the tedious but necessary building up of strength behind that front.

Eventually the moment will come when we will have sufficient power to strike back in real force, to roll the invaders back and restore South Korea to its rightful rulers.

Apparently we cannot expect too much help from the South Koreans themselves in this operation. It will have to be largely an American show. But we shall see it through nevertheless. For the price of failure—open invitation to further Red aggression—is greater than any cost that could arise from the Korean war even should that conflict stretch out over many painful months.

Naturally we should ask other members of the United Nations for whatever aid they can give, but we must recognize that some countries, like Britain and France, cannot extend much help without dangerously weakening the defenses against Communism at other vital points. Basically, the job is ours.

Talking Out of Turn

Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin is not a man to yield the front pages easily. It will take more than a war in Korea to induce him to abandon the course he set out upon last February.

Although he has updated his charges by tying them into the Korean affair, he still is accusing the same people of the same things. And he still has failed to produce any proof.

No fair individual would proclaim flatly that there is no reason at all to inquire into the government's previous course of action in Asia. There may well be evidence of colossal error, if not outright subversion.

But when a war is being fought the time for such investigations is after a decision has been reached. Unity is the need of this hour, as some of McCarthy's GOP colleagues have recognized in announcing their intent to look into delays on South Korean arms shipments ONLY when the fighting is over.

McCarthy's methods were reckless from the start. Both his methods and his purpose seem wholly out of key with the critical times we have now entered upon.

THE MIRACLE STARTS FROM WITHIN

We pursue the necessity of a creative, outgoing love. It is, in the words of Professor W. E. Hocking, "the most radically creative attitude yet known to men—the determination to do what the Everlasting Mercy does." The Everlasting Mercy is creative and outgoing in love. As someone has said: "If you want to survive, get faith and make it infectious. . . . The chances are on the side of that audacity which we call friendliness."

Leslie B. Sauter says: "Every normal man or woman longs more keenly for love, for warm friendship, admiration and human responsiveness from his fellows than for anything else in life. . . . Wouldst thou love life? Then start giving those about you the feeling they long for. Start passing out good cheer and brotherly love, and you will receive in return a personal friendliness and genuine happiness you never dreamed possible, and which will revolutionize your whole life."

Don't wait for some miracle to be performed on you from without, lifting you above your fears and doubts and self-centeredness. You help God from within by turning in outgoing love to others, and miraculously your fears and doubts and self-centeredness will vanish. The miracle starts from within, not from without. Throw your will on the side of outgoing love, and all the healing resources of the universe will be behind you.

But neither God nor man can help you if you remain bottled up in yourself. You are not made to live that way, and all the medicine you can take, all the advice you can receive, all the praying you can do, will do you no good unless you throw your will on the side of outgoing love. Get out of yourself, or perish!

Allan Hunter says: "We may discover, as a contemporary philosopher suggests, that loving our enemies because we first love God is better treatment for nervous indigestion than an operation or an analysis." It is a better treatment not only for nervous indigestion, but also for almost anything that ails us.

O Thou Who are always reaching out after me in love and awakening me, help me this day to do the same. Help me to quicken and awaken some life by the touch of my friendliness and love. Here is something I need not be afraid of—I cannot be too loving. Help me. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

You Can Do Yourself Bodily Harm by Worrying Too Much

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

This is a period in history of great anxiety. Most of us are anxious about the state of the world. At least at times most of us are anxious about our finances, our jobs, our marriages, our children, our social position, or one of the other problems of life.

Overanxiety can even produce a real mental illness. Perfectly normal worry can result in mental suffering and in physical symptoms.

In a recent book by Rollo May, Ph. D., called "The Meaning of Anxiety," many aspects of this interesting problem of worry are discussed in learned detail. In this brief comment, it is possible to mention only a few of the many points brought out by May.

It is well known, for example, that anxiety and fear can result in the overproduction of sugar in the body and cause diabetes. A toxic goiter may result from some terrifying experience. Numerous heart conditions are found to accompany worry or emotional stress.

Long-continued anxiety is believed to be a cause of excessive appetite and resultant overweight. An excessive amount of worry is frequently associated with some forms of high blood pressure. A patient with asthma often has a personality characterized by over-anxiety.

Perhaps the outstanding disease associated with worry is ulcer of the stomach. Research workers have shown that emotional disturbances associated with anxiety will increase the amount of acid in the stomach and will produce other definite changes in the action of the stomach juices. This agrees with the experience of almost all ulcer patients who find that their symptoms are worse whenever they become upset by a quarrel, or any other mental disturbance.

Quiet Down

All of this means that worry and similar emotions not only interfere with the calm approach to life which leads to a contented existence, but also has an effect on many bodily functions.

Furthermore, we now know that there is a close relationship between some of the nerves and the glands of internal secretion which produce hormones and that both may act on various parts of the body in harmful ways.

In view of this information, everyone should strive to avoid worrying and should learn to take the problems and conflicts of their daily lives with as much calmness as they possibly can. There is no longer any doubt that a calm approach to one's problems pays dividends in health.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

LITTLE DOC

Copyright 1930 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Just as John Sand, M. D., arrives at Wolf Point, Mont., there is a shouting in which Dusty Rhodes, a cowboy, shoots a gambler. Dusty finds a place for Sand to open an office and while the doctor is finishing dressing the wound Kit Carson, named after the famous trapper, appears. Kit is a pretty rough-and-ready, but apparently a good doctor. He is apparently a gambler because Dusty killed a man. After Dusty leaves, Kit offers to take Doc to breakfast and the doctor tells her that he came west because "something happened" to interfere with his plans to practice in the East.

IV

KIT CARSON smiled at Doc and her hand smoothed the guilt lettering on his medical bag.

"Then something happened," she repeated Doc's words in a low-toned voice. "It must've been a girl. She made it sound like a flat statement. Her gray eyes watched him flinch."

Then the girl named Kit Carson did a strange thing. She found a harness awl among the litter of odds and ends that cluttered the table. She scratched out the gilt lettering with almost savage haste until there was nothing left of it. And where the lettering had been she slowly and painstakingly carved with the pointed awl the words "LITTLE DOC."

"That's what Wolf Point will call you before the moon changes. You can mark the words of a prophet—a she-prophet."

She tossed the awl on the table and walked slowly over to where John Sand stood. Both her hands reached out and she held his face between them as she kissed him.

"Put on your hat and coat and rubbers and we'll eat. I'm due back in the hotel kitchen to start breakfast. The cook's in jail and I'm it. How do you like your steak?"

He helped her into the saddle slicker and she pulled her hat down on her red head.

"I know only a greenhorn tenderfoot asks questions. But who is the big cowboy I just patched back in a hammerlock and pulled him into the cabin, snarling and kicking.

It was the little ex-jockey Toad. John Sand turned him loose and yanked him to his feet. Blood flowed from the doctor's nose and his brown eyes glinted.

A knife suddenly appeared in Toad's hand when he rushed. John Sand chopped down at his wrist with the flat of his hand and the knife went spinning. The doctor sidestepped and his short uppercut caught Toad under the jaw and lifted him up and off his feet and landed him on his back. He lay spread eagled and his eyes rolled back until the whites showed like dirty white marbles.

John Sands stepped back, breathing hard through his nose, head forward and a little down, blowing the blood from his nostrils.

"You sure pack a wallop, Doc," said Kit Carson.

John Sand wiped the blood from his nose with the back of his hand and grinned. "I boxed a little in school."

Kit kept watching the man on the floor. She had picked up the knife, a pearl-handled knife with a four-inch blade that sprang open when she pressed a button.

JOHN SAND took his first good look at Toad when he moaned and sat up. He saw the flat nose, the wicked little pale eyes and the thin-lipped, wide, fragile mouth.

"Just in case you commence spreading a lot of filthy lies, Toad," said the girl. "I'm keeping this plaything of yours. It'll come in handy when I'm sewing, to rip out the bastards. Or it could be used to shed a little light on one or two stabbings that are still a mystery to Constable Butch Bell. If any gossip bounces back to me, you'd better get out now."

After he had gone, John Sand pulled on his mackintosh. "Evil little germ, isn't he?" He hesitated about calling her name. "Miss—"

"Kit's the name," she reminded him. "He's wicked as sin. I hope he hasn't spoiled your appetite."

"I like my steak rare, Kit," said Little Doc.

General Lie In An Appeal To Koreans

To Avoid Atrocities Such as The Shooting Of Prisoners Of War

LAKE SUCCESS, July 13—(AP)—U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie has appealed to North and South Korea to avoid atrocities such as the shooting of prisoners and all acts contrary to humanitarian principles.

The action was disclosed today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo announced definite proof that four American soldiers were murdered on the battlefield by North Koreans and warned that those guilty would be punished whenever caught.

In Washington, Senator Bridges, (R-NH), demanded an immediate protest by the United States and the U. N.

Lie urged both the North and South to admit representatives of the international committee of the Red Cross to set up measures for applying the Geneva conventions against atrocities.

The international committee is made up of Swiss nationals who have the job of observing how the Geneva conventions are followed in war.

Neither side in Korea has signed the Geneva conventions, which are designed to protect military wounded and sick, war prisoners, civilian population.

Blind Man Admits Flags Over Korea Bank Holdup

MONAHANS, Tex., July 11—(AP)—A blind man who said he was wanted for a bank robbery at Havana, Ark., 19 years ago, gave himself up to Sheriff W. B. McNeelin in Monahans today.

"My conscience has been hurting me all these years. And I'd do anything to get something done about my eyes, even if it means going to the pen," said the man, who identified himself as Stanley E. Hedrick, 38.

Hedrick said he had been blind for 13 years from an inherited disease.

He told his story to the sheriff and Hugh P. Cooper, editor of the Monahans News.

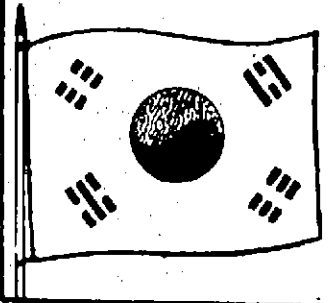

He said that he and another fellow gained $900 from the bank robbery in Arkansas late in 1931; he didn't remember what month. And he said also he was involved in a postoffice robbery in Quitaque (Briscoe county), Tex., in 1932 when he and another fellow got $300.

Sheriff McNeelin kept the man in jail here while he checked.

Revolution in Your Winter Overcoat

A New Fabric That May Eliminate Blankets Now Being Produced as 'Magic' Fall Lining

Secret of Warmth in new fabric called "Miltum" is the metallic finish that comes out of this vat at Pendleton, S. C.

By NEA Service

NEW YORK — A little more than a year ago, a silvery fabric that promises to spell a revolution in how you dress for winter was just an experiment in a converted stable near Cleveland.

Today that cloth is rolling from a new windowless textile plant in South Carolina on its way to the fall clothing trade. It will reach consumers first in the linings of coats, and jackets for men, women and children. Eventually, it may make heavy coats and blankets as out-dated as red flannels.

The new garments, manufacturers predict, will be the warmest ever made of their types and weights.

One famous maker of sportswear will use the fabric in a jacket for golfers who like to keep playing in all sorts of winter weather. A women's coat maker will promote the cloth as the way to let women be "warm and slender at the same time." Other manufacturers will add the cloth as linings to existing garments and offer them as super-warm coats for use in unusually severe winter areas.

The revolutionary fabric is "Miltum," and its secret is a metallic finish applied to one side of the cloth by spraying the fibers with fine particles of metals. Without changing the porosity of the fabric treated, the metal reflects back to the body a large part of the heat radiated by it. Any metal that flakes, including gold and silver, can be used, but aluminum appears to be the most practical. It is the aluminum that gives the cloth the silvery appearances.

Rayon, satins, twills and crepes used for coat linings are the fabrics being processed initially. But the new finish can be applied to any ordinary natural or synthetic fiber including wool, cotton, nylon and the newly developed orlon.

First work on Miltum was done by James E. Rand, III, a young Cleveland scientist who earlier developed an electric razor, an improved electric washing machine and several medical devices. When a clothing manufacturer wanted to explore the possibility of an overcoat electrically heated like a electric blanket, he went to Rand. Because of the weight of batteries required, this idea was impractical, so Rand turned to reflection of the body's own heat. The metallic cloth was the answer.

In one of the more startling tests, it was found that a thin nylon seersucker coverlet treated by the new process and a sheet proved warmer on a bed than a blanket 10 times as thick. Treat ed draperies gave promise of helping keep homes warm in the winter and cool in the summer.

A valuable immediate application is expected to be in children's snow suits and similar garments. Observations at Sun Valley, Idaho, and Cleveland last spring indicate that children are less inclined to perspire excessively and to throw off Miltum-lined coats than those wearing heavier outer wear.

Miltum lining will add a few dollars to the retail prices of garments. While coat linings probably will utilize all Miltum until plant additions are completed and other processors are licensed, many other applications are in prospect.

(The only processor at present is Deering, Milliken & Co., which backed final research.)

Military authorities are interested in the fabric as a possible lining for sleeping bags and for high altitude and cold weather suits. Several manufacturers are eager to use it in the bedding and drapery fields. Even applications in awnings and automobile tops are being discussed.

Superforts Strike in Big Raid

Germany to Japan. They were geared for battle today with alert, confident eagerness.

"I wish they had forgotten my name this time," said Staff Sgt. William M. Kofmehl, Spokane, Wash., tail gunner on our abortive flight and veteran of the European air war. "But maybe it's better to get it over with now instead of getting pushed around all the time like we've been doing."

They know they have the planes and the experience to master this kind of war — and they know, too, what it was like for the infantrymen on the ground, most of them untested before two weeks ago, to be outnumbered and outgunned.

"I sure hope our bombs help," Tech. Sgt. Robert Asher told Flint O. Dupre, a former Dallas newspaperman. Dupre as FEAR public information officer flew in one of the planes reaching the target. Asher, engineer on that ship, comes from 2910 Jefferson street, Riverside, Calif.

Dupre said that over the target area the weather closed in so tightly that his aircraft commander, Lt. Norman B. Hemingway, 1321 Northwest Miami Court, Miami, Fla., had to climb 500 feet to be sure of avoiding his wing plane.

Used Precision Flying

The bombers were skittish, each was loaded with 10 tons of explosives and precision flying was essential. One squadron of the B-29s carried more than three times the weight of explosives carried by the famous B-24s of World War II.

The B-29s walked out gingerly to the runway and were flagged off on a precision schedule.

"Looks like the start of a dog race," said Lt. James S. Murphy, Columbus, O., a veteran of the B-17 war in Europe. Then he laid down a steel flank suit for me to sit on, just behind the cockpit.

"I'll keep the bullets out of your behind," he remarked.

They were like that, these young-old men, back in war and resigned to it, confident of their machines — yet wary. They had been briefed seriously — on their mission of blasting out war potential, and on their opponents.

Tech. Sgt. Joseph C. Goslin, Spokane, Wash., a naval aircraft engineer during the last war, came out to the plane with a paper showing pictures of the bodies of American doughboys shot with their hands tied behind their backs.

"Looks like they're teaching us early," he said.

They know, Patrick, at 27 a veteran of 42 missions over the hump in China, said, strapping on a revolver:

"If they knock us down, be careful what Koreans you trust — try to pick out the old ones because they might remember something of democracy."

Drop Bombs on Sea

The planes carried men like Staff Sgt. William T. Ayres, a tail gunner of Jonesboro, Ark., and Oroville, Wash. He was shot down in Europe and imprisoned by the Germans in World War II.

And yet what happened when our No. 4 motor started spouting oil?

"Nuts," said Patrick, "this is a

They attended the Strainers national convention, visited at Riverside, Calif., and took trips to places of interest in the state. They also visited Pueblo and the Royal Gorge. On their return trip they visited Wilcox, Ariz., El Paso, Tex., Albuquerque, N. M.

fine way to make our first mission.

"Come on," said Capt. James L. Sefton, Bloomington, Ind., "we can make it on three engines. Come on, let's go."

But Patrick decided against it. When we started losing a gallon of oil every three seconds. We circled out the offending motor and circled over the ocean to drop our bombs.

They made a white ringworm on the blue sea.

"Nice shooting, Jimmy," someone said.

"Yeah," said Sefton. "They would have been that way on the target too."

The word spread through the plane and gunners got glut even when they relaxed their vigil.

"All that work," said Lt. John B. Wood, Jr., Ulica, Pa., the navigator. "It took us two days to load those bombs."

With our bombs gone, we then weighed around 114,000 pounds and were considered safe for landing.

The crew trailed off the plane like a losing football team.

"Wait until next time," Patrick promised.

Nearly Made Off With Payroll

BALTIMORE, July 13.—(AP)—A 17-year-old boy almost got away with $32,238 in payroll money at a branch bank today.

His downfall was an alert garage mechanic who "knew doggone well something was wrong because he was running so fast."

Police identified the boy as Charles W. Johnson. They placed no charge against him immediately, but held him for investigation.

Samuel I. Kemp, manager of the Calvert bank's West Baltimore branch, parked behind the bank after stopping downtown at the main office to pick up the payroll money.

A young blond, wearing knickerbockers, a blue shirt and a green baseball cap, confronted him with a 38 revolver, slugged him on the back of the head with the gun, grabbed the money bag and ran. Kemp fired a shot but it went wild.

An alarm sent police patrol cars converging on the bank.

"I saw this boy running up the alley," said Emmitt Pleasant, who was standing outside his garage in the neighborhood.

"I knew doggone well something was wrong because he was running so fast."

"I followed him. He ran up another alley."

"I went to the bank and found out what happened. I told police about the running boy. I took them where I had seen him."

"We went up the alley and we saw the boy."

"He was walking until he saw the police car. He threw the pistol in one back-yard and the bag in another. He ran and the police caught him."

"I found the bag and opened it up. I never saw so much money in my life. I turned it over to the police as fast as I could."

Patrolmen Albert Embling and John Chilis said they fired at Johnson to get him to stop and found the money bag intact. They picked up a 38 revolver. Johnson admitted the holdup, they reported.

More Power Given Government Heads

WASHINGTON, July 13—(AP)—Legislation giving the heads of government departments and agencies "absolute discretion" to fire civilian employees they consider bad security risks won smashing approval in the House Wednesday 327 to 14. The measure, which now goes to the Senate, applies to the state, treasury, justice, commerce and defense departments, the army, navy and air force, the atomic energy commission, the national security resources board, the national advisory committee for aeronautics and any other agencies the President may designate. The House refused, by a vote of 193 to 144, to provide for an appeal by the discharged employee to the civil service commission. The House civil service committee sponsored the bill as necessary to permit agency heads to clean out their departments and get rid of security risks without too much red tape. Opponents attacked it as a move in the direction of "dictatorship" and claimed it would wreck the civil service commission. Democrat-Capital class ads get results! 10 words, one week, 80c

Tighter Security By the Army-Navy

WASHINGTON, July 13—(AP)—The Army and Navy said they have sent out orders for tighter security on information about the movement of troops and supplies. The announcement came after protests were voiced in Congress that too much is being told about steps to build up American strength in Korea. Guidance Points The Navy said it has sent district commanders the following guidance points on information: 1. "No effort or attempt will be made to conceal preparations for movement of troops or ships which are self evident. However data and statistics concerning the numbers of personnel or equipment, prospective sailing dates, names of units embarked for destinations will not be disclosed." 2. "Information concerning ship movements from the west coast may be made available after the departure of the ships. Information concerning ship movements west of Hawaii will not be released." 3. "Photographs of loadings, sailings and reactivation operations will be permitted with normal security restrictions of the Navy (that is, the same restrictions that have always been in effect)." The Army said that instructions similar to those of the Navy had been sent to all Army commands in the United States. The Census Bureau estimates District of Columbia population at 870,000.

Money for parks. Money for playgrounds. Money for schools. Money for roads and bridges. Money for police and fire protection. Money for county and municipal services. Yes, and money for state projects and the federal government, too.

A lot of it comes out of our tax barrel hopper. This tax money benefits everybody in this locality.

In 1949, for instance, the men and women of the Missouri Public Service Company paid over $35,000.00 in county taxes. We provided more than $80,000.00 for education of our children and yours. And we paid the federal government a whopping tax bill which amounted to nearly $110,000.00.

As the saying goes, "This ain't hay, folks."

Lumped all together, the people of the Missouri Public Service Company by their energies and sound business management were able to pay last year a total tax bill of $614,163.70.

As taxpayers in the community, we like to see our tax dollars used for the greatest amount of benefit for all.

Right now the Southwestern Power Administration and officials of the REA have a plan to spend many millions of tax dollars. And the end of the plan means the destruction of this company. If our company is destroyed that dries up $614,163.70 in taxes — taxes we now pay. And if we don't pay them our friends and neighbors in Western Missouri will be called upon to make up the difference.

What's more, the plan of the SPA-REA combine only duplicates the service we and other electric companies provide. Their plan spends wasteful amounts of tax money for a new network of power lines where our lines already carry electricity.

The SPA claims these proposed lines are needed to carry SPA electric power to the REA coops to whom they desire to sell power. But we have offered our transmission lines to the SPA to deliver SPA power to the Coops at any price the SPA desires to charge. And at no cost to the coops, either.

The saving in taxes to the people of Western Missouri will amount to a good part of $11,360,000.00 if our offer is accepted.

The SPA spends many millions in taxes for a plan which will not extend electricity to a single farmer who doesn't have it already.

The SPA eats up Federal income taxes. It provides no tax money to the government and is exempt from most other taxes. The SPA is a division of the federal Department of the Interior.

Crime Committee Of Senate To K. C.

KANSAS CITY, July 13—(P)—The Kefauver Senate investigating committee will hold a two-day hearing here next week on gambling and racketeering activities. George H. White, investigator for the committee, said the hearings would be held Wednesday and Thursday. Two witnesses already have been subpoenaed, it is understood. White, an agent in charge of the San Francisco office of the federal narcotics bureau, is working temporarily for the five-man special Senate committee. He said the group also will return to Kansas City at a later date. The Senate committee indicated earlier it would conduct on-the-spot inquiries at Miami, St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago. Only the Miami hearing will be open to the public, but Senator Kefauver, (D) of Tennessee has explained the purpose of the investigations is to study various phases of interstate criminal activities.

Three Escape Injury In Navy Plane Crash

BRANFORD, Conn., July 13—(P)—A twin-engine Navy plane crash landed here Wednesday and caused the only injury suffered by the three fliers involved in the accident. Ensign Stanley Henderson, 22, of Dayton Beach, Fla., ordered to bail out when the plane encountered engine trouble, landed unhurt in a tree. But a dog bit him on both legs when he climbed down to the ground. A local physician treated the wounds. Lieut. (jg) Harold R. Heagerty, 29, of Merrill, Mo., the pilot, and Commander Robert W. Rynd, 35, of New York City, stayed with the plane. Heagerty made a belly landing in a meadow, and the plane skidded into a creek near

East German Police To Mysterious Destinations

BERLIN, July 13—(P)—Reports have multiplied in Berlin that detachments of East German police troopers in new field gray uniforms are being shipped to mysterious destinations. A senior United States intelligence officer said he was inclined to agree with one theory, that if the units are being sent out of Germany their mission is to some Communist pressure point in southeast Europe such as the Yugoslav border. He did not exclude the possibility, however, that the police are being dispatched to Korea. The Berlin anti-Communist press has been reporting recently that East German police would be used in "International Brigades" being formed for intervention in Korea.
